I ordered yesterday at 3 pm ... reviewing the engine over 3k made a nice shot out of sound! While driving you definitely can here your turbo coil on now. I benefits? After the I still had my hood open, and I fired her. In traffic I can imagine the car is just jumping all that hot air out of the engine... it happened if it moves... the hot air still under the hood and out of the EC isn't big enough to cool all that...so reducing your HP gains. For a while I almost forgot that the F10 had been turbocharged lol until now. Keep in mind, however, with the BMS suction, it still uses the "cold air" designed from the bottom of the spare air box. Normally, if you don't, you won't hear any difference besides the whoosssh sound... with a melody and the addition of PSI, the engine needs more air thus providing more HP Very true, if you have a melody this is a perfect "contributing mode" to compliment the IB4.
